Rack 'n Roll

$19.59 plus postage. Extra skewer pack $7.99 online

SPRING and summer are just around the corner and that means holiday season approaches. And a summer holiday generally means there's a barbecue sitting at your next holiday destination ready to be fired up. Dads will be king of the grill once they give the clever Rack 'n Roll a spin. This stainless-steel skewer and rack was designed by the "Snag Man" and its main mission in life is to cook sausages and kebabs to perfection. One test run and you'll be won over by the knowledge that your snags will never be burned or unevenly cooked again. Basically, the skewers poke through your meat, sit in a rack device and the handles act as wheels – as simple as that.

Mirrus (anti-fog shaving mirror)

$67 ($33.50 for Gadget Inspector readers, see below)

NEXT time Dad's on the move travelling for business or leisure, his shaving experience won't be the same if he has managed to get his hands on the portable Mirrus fog-free mirror. Whether it's plonking it on a tree branch while camping or in a bathroom at a hotel, this small, portable and indestructible unit takes shaving to a new level. It might be worth ordering two, because chances are you will be whacking one up in the bathroom at home as well as giving one to Dad next weekend. Hot deal: readers will get a 50 per cent discount if they mention "Gadget Inspector" in the PayPal ordering page at the website.

Wireless Key Finder

$64.95

FUNCTIONALITY is the key – pardon the pun – with this ripper little device that will save Dad from ever losing his keys again, whether it be for the car, campervan, hotel room or home. With the simple press of a button, the ADH Wireless Key Finder will locate keys up to 30m away. The lads from ADH Gifts gave me the full demonstration last week and it worked a treat as we threw the keys around corners, in boxes and up the other end of the warehouse. In a nutshell, it includes two colour-coded receivers that beep loudly when a button is pressed on the transmitter. As easy as that.

Wireless BBQ Thermometer

$64.95

HANDS up who finds it hard to chat with family or friends while manning a barbecue and not knowing if you've cooked the meat properly? This wireless barbecue thermometer is the size of a small mobile phone and, quite simply, you stick it into the meat and its receiver function will beep when your meat is cooked to perfection – and alert you even if you're gasbagging with mates up to 30m away. Choose from eight meats and select either well done, medium, rare or very rare. Dads can now relax on that holiday while sipping on a beer and cooking at the same time. There's also a torch on the receiver so you can cook in the dark.
